The Boston Election.

MINNEAPOLIS, November 23.—A special from Huron, South Dakota, claims that the returns from the recent election show that the majority for division of the territory is about 1,500. The legislature will be called together to-morrow to pass on the question. There is no doubt that the division will be carried, but it is not certain that the capital will be removed from Huron.

Meeting of Directors.

CHICAGO, November 23.—At a meeting of the directors of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad company, held to-day, Robert Rae was elected president, to succeed the late Charles Paine. Mr Rae was formerly general manager of the road, and has been connected with it for many years. He is a resident of Chicago.

Meeting of Irishmen.

CHICAGO, November 23.—A meeting of Irishmen was held in Standard hall last night to express sympathy with the Irish people in their struggle for home rule. Hon John E Fitzgerald of Boston was the orator of the evening. He said on the nationalism of the Irish is the hope of their race, and as a result of recent events the demand for separation from England was stronger to-day than ever. He concluded with the declaration that if the British government resolve upon desperate measures they can expect desperate measures in return.

A Mystery Solved.

NEW YORK, November 23.—The twentieth anniversary of the execution of the Manchester martyrs was celebrated to-night in the large hall of Cooper Institute this evening. The meeting was not altogether harmonious. When Richard Caffrey denounced those who opposed Henry George in the late election, denouncing Patrick Ford for special denunciation, there were loud protests. Several of those who protested were promptly put out, and a company of the 69th regiment arose and left the place. The confusion lasted several minutes, and while two men were being ejected by citizens and police matters assumed a serious aspect. Dr McGlynn also raised a single cheer of hisses and applause when he denounced the treatment to which he had been subjected to by the pope and Archbishop Corrigan.

A Mystery Solved.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, November 23.—A man was shot in the drawing-room of James Bann this evening and was mortally wounded. Five girls and two men living on the floor, to all appearances did. They were hurriedly removed to their residences and treated by physicians. None saw the shooting, and can tell nothing. All are in a very serious condition. It is thought probable they were asphyxiated by natural gas, but no odor was perceptible in the shop.

Nina's Mourning.

CHICAGO, November 23.—Nina Van Zandt, the proxy wife of the assassinated Spies, who is a milliner store with her mother this morning and ordered a mourning outfit and cards to be sent to for "Mrs N Spies." Her mother refused to Nina purchasing a heavy veil, but Nina after a few hasty words had her way and the veil was bought. Mrs Van Zandt did not wish to attend the anarchists' funeral and the purchase is looked on by the Knights of Labor as an indication that Nina will wear weeds for a year.

Investigation Demanded.

NEW YORK, November 23.—John Spellman, the jockey who died at St Vincent's hospital this morning. His death was due to injuries said to have been received in a house on Thirteenth street during a dispute Tuesday night last. The affair was not known to the police so the coroner was not called to take an ante mortem statement. The coroner will investigate.

Northern Pacific Bonds.

NEW YORK, November 23.—President Harris of the Northern Pacific has just closed negotiations with August Belmont and Henry Villard representing a syndicate in which the Rothschilds and the Deutsche bank of Berlin are the principals for the sale of eight million dollars of third mortgage bonds, authorized at the special meeting of stockholders of the Northern Pacific.

Failed to Materialize.

LONDON, November 24.—An attempt was made at Thurles to-day to restore unity in the Clonlea Athletic association, was a failure. Davitt and Fitzgerald finding nothing short of absolute submission to the party represented by the priests would satisfy the seceders, left Thurles without seeing Archbishop Croke.

Pardoned by the Governor.

DENVER, November 23.—M A Martin, sentenced from West Las Animas in 1878, for life, for murdering a man named Green in 1878, was pardoned by Governor Adams to-day. The evidence upon which Martin was convicted was insufficient to warrant a verdict of manslaughter and this fact being proven to the governor, the pardon was granted.

A Steamer Burned.

GREENVILLE, Miss., November 23.—Last night the steamer Charles P Chouteau burned at Shallowater Landing. A colored fireman and a colored deck passenger were burned to death. The boat and cargo of cotton are a total loss, nothing being left of the great cotton carrier but her immense iron hull.

Parnell's Explanation.

LONDON, November 23.—The Chronicle's Rome correspondent says Monsignor Persico declares that Ireland is not ripe for home rule, but that there exists a universal aspiration for progressive emancipation which the English government would do well to reckon with.

Information from a Boycotter.

CORK, November 23.—It is asserted this evening that Harry Varnell, the convicted ex-warden of the county insane asylum, has been in communication with State's Attorney Grinnell for some time and has given him much valuable information about the boodle gang, regarding who had paid [illegible] for deal

The Destruction of Property Already Enormous.

Poultry Buildings, Pasturage and Grain Consumed.

Ravages of Forest Fires.

CHARLESTON, W Va., November 23.—Forest fires now are prevalent in this section and are doing much damage to standing timber and other crops.

MEMPHIS, November 23.—Reports of forest fires now are prevalent in this section. In Arkansas, near Desarc, the range on both sides and bottoms has been almost completely destroyed during the past two days and the whole country is ablaze. It has for several days obscured the sun. The town was also practically surrounded by forest fires and everybody feels great uneasiness. In the neighborhood of Okolona, Arkansas, forest fires are sweeping the mountains, consuming cotton and cotton seed, destroying fencing and other property.

ATLANTA, Ga., November 23.—Fires have been raging for the past week in the Yazoo delta for the past two days, causing great destruction in their wake. There has been great loss in cotton, corn, fences and outhouses and in some instances gin houses and barns have been destroyed. The greatest damage, however, has been to timber. Magnificent cypress brakes in many instances have been almost denuded, entailing a loss upon the owners of many thousands of dollars. The smoke has been so intense that the people have suffered beyond endurance. So great and so dense has the smoke that settled in the field has been turned to a yellowish cast, and it is at times impossible to have washing done. Flames in the Hatchie bottom, fanned by a fall of winds, have [illegible] destruction before them. Thousands of acres of forest have been destroyed and switch cane has been utterly consumed in the valley of the Hatchie river the cane has been the chief dependence for winter pasturage for cattle. It is now effectually destroyed, and old settlers say it will be ten years before it can be renewed. To-night a gentle rain is falling. It is quite general and may stay the ravages of the fires.

Dynamite in London.

LONDON, November 23.—Extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard the dynamite in Cullen Hickins's prison. In dust holes at Cullen's lodging [illegible] dynamite [illegible] and other explosive compounds have been found buried in the neighbors' gardens.

The Crown Prince's Case.

BERLIN, November 24.—Dr. Schmidt in a long report to a medical society of Berlin in the case of the crown prince says endocrinous inflammation has existed from the very beginning from the left vocal chord. This consequently irritation which produced papillary growths on the chord.

Willie Naked.

DENVER, November 24.—Wade entered the cell in Tullamore jail in which John Mandeville is confined violently stripped him of his clothing and left him entirely naked. Mandeville persists that he will not wear the prison uniform.

Amateur Theatricals.

The entertainment given at the Cliff house in Manitou last night for the benefit of St Andrew's chapel was very much of a success financially and artistically.

The Cliff house dining room and parlors, when thrown together, are admirably adapted to entertainments of this character, while the young ladies who had the matter in charge spared no pains to make it completely successful.

W. D. Howells one-act play "The Mouse Trap," was perhaps the most meritorious play of the two presented, both in the composition of the play and in the way it was enacted.

Where all the work was so excellent it is hard to discriminate, but in the "Mouse Trap" the greater part of the acting fell to Mrs. D. Woods and Miss McAuley, and it is needless to say that the characters they assumed were rendered most admirably.

Miss Maude Hulbert threw considerable expression into the part of Tabe, the house maid, and managed to draw more applause than the author originally intended.

The following is the cast of the play:

Willie Campbell	Miss F. V. McAuley
Mrs. Roberts	Mrs. D. L. Woods
Mrs. Miller	Miss Ida Nichols
Mrs. Herrin	Mrs. M. Astley
Mrs. Curwen	Mrs. J. F. Rapp
Jane	Miss Emerson
	Miss Maud Hulbert

During the interim between the two plays the little Misses Mary Green, Alice Leuders and Leon Francisco sang and acted the "Three Little Maids from School," from the Mikado, in a ludicrous manner.

"The Sleeping Car" is more in the nature of a farce, and was more pleasing to the children.

The greater part of the work of this play devolved upon Miss Ida Nichols, although Mr H. H. Grafton and Mrs. John Rand did most of the comedy work and kept the audience laughing.

Mr Dan Rupp, Mr. D Smiley and Mr. R. D. Weir did not have much to do but they managed to look their parts.

The cast of the play was as follows:

Mrs. Roberts	Miss Nichols
Aunt Mary	Miss Rand
Callie Leslie	Mr. H. Grafton
Mr. Roberts	Dr. F. Woods
Willie Campbell	Mr. R. D. Weir
Porter	Mr. D. Smiley
Conductor	Mr. D. Smiley
Stranger	Mr. Rand

The preparations for the fair for the benefit of the hospital are nearly complete. It promises to be the most successful fair ever given in this city.

Gen Randolph Marcy, whose death is announced in our dispatches this morning, was born in 1811 and graduated at West Point in 1832. He gained distinction in the Mexican war, and also as an Indian fighter during the trouble with the Seminoles along the Red river, and also during the expedition of 1857-58. He was chief of staff to his son-in-law, General McClellan, during the war of the rebellion. He published several works of travel and personal recollection.

Colonel Dickey has notified the telegraph operators in this state of reductions in the rate of telegraphing. In future, day and night messages to any point in the east will have a maximum rate of seventy-five cents for ten words and five cents for each extra word. This is also the maximum rate from here to the Pacific coast. The action of the Western Union company is very wise. Undoubtedly the absorption of the Baltimore and Ohio line has made people very suspicious regarding rates, and this action will allay some apprehensions.

Miss Emma Lazarus died in New York last Friday of cancer. She began her literary career when seventeen years of age, and had won quite a reputation as a magazine writer. The latter part of her life she spent in defending her race. The Russians once, [illegible] and fated [illegible] If ever she should in these articles be right to her a kind of [illegible] which few magazine writers have. She was still under forty, and gave promise of a [illegible] career. Her death is a great loss to her race, for no writer in this country of recent times has done so much to clear up misconceptions, and give a [illegible] view of her race.

During and immediately following the late alleged Ute war there has been an effort to suppress some of the scandals regarding the action of our soldiers, but the fact appears to have been ineffectual and there are likely to be court martials. It would be a very good thing for the military if there were. Some of our brave military officers have neither shown courage nor honorable demeanor. They ought to have been cashiered long ago. The only trouble about the matter is that there are so many officers in the same boat that it will be pretty difficult to convict any one. We are very happy to announce that there is no scandal whatever regarding the action of the Colorado Springs company or any of its officers. They behaved themselves throughout the campaign like gentlemen and soldiers and won the warmest approval from all their superiors.

Defeated candidates on both the republican and democratic tickets are contesting the result of the election in Arapahoe county. The Denver papers published yesterday the papers on which they grounded their contests. In general, the contests seem to be founded on irregularities rather than on ballot box stuffing. The returns from this county this year were made very imperfectly, though there was not any excuse whatever. Full instructions were sent to the judges of the election, and all returns might have been made according to law with very little care on the part of the judges. Such carelessness might be prevented if there was a penalty attaching to it. It would be well if there was a penalty, because if there is anything important in this country, it is that our election should be honestly and accurately conducted, so that no result shall not be questioned.

General Boulanger comes again into prominence in the present political crisis in France. Clemenceau, the leader of the radical part of the lower house, and his cousin Grevy has resigned. Of the twenty possible successors, General Boulanger is one. Three months ago he was the most popular man in France but there is now a want of confidence in his steadiness of purpose and life, which will seriously affect his [illegible]. His popularity seems to have been gained in part by systematically working the newspapers. His official orders were given to the newspapers before they were given to the subordinates to whom they were directed. He undertook certain improvements in the organization of the army, and managed through the press to keep it before the people. The French people can never forget the humiliation they suffered in the Franco-German war. There never had been a party or a man who could embody for them this feeling of hate. Boulanger's work however in organizing the army and his somewhat fierce talk regarding the Rhine boundary dispute made him a representative of this feeling of hate. His popularity, therefore, is not from any personal qualities but because the people hate Germany for what she has done them, and because they expect some day to settle which they never lose sight of. The sentiment of to-day. But of late, he has shown a great deal of weakness. Several letters of his to the Duc d'Aumale were made public a little while ago. They were full of cowardly and excessive flattery to a bad man. Soon after, the Duc d'Aumale was expelled from France and [illegible] ...

[illegible] ... to join in the ... the people, and for his participation. He made some speeches of a character ... but it was [illegible] ... Three months ... [illegible] ... [illegible] ... [illegible]
